Beyond Hard Hats and Harnesses: The Hidden Health Hazards of Construction

When we think about construction safety, we often picture hard hats, safety glasses, and fall protection. But what about the hazards we can't see?

Join Julie Callaway, President of BDN Industrial Hygiene Consultants, for an engaging discussion on the hidden health hazards that impact construction projects and the people who build them. Drawing from more than 35 years of experience and real Michigan projects—including Michigan Central Station, healthcare facilities, and local schools—Julie will explore the role Industrial Hygiene plays in identifying, evaluating, and controlling exposures to asbestos, lead, silica, and other occupational health hazards.

Attendees will gain practical insights into project planning, risk management, regulatory compliance, and the critical questions every construction leader should ask before work begins.
